COVID-19 AND PSYCHIATRY: LEGAL AND CLINICAL IMPLICATIONS

The COVID-19 Pandemic has seriously impacted the legal and clinical services available to those individuals suffering from mental illness and their loved ones who often seek assistance on their behalf.

Carolyn Reinach Wolf, Esq.
Executive Partner
Abrams Fensterman et al

Stewart B. Levine, M.D.
Associate Professor, Psychiatry
The Mount Sinai Hospital

Join our guest speakers Ms. Reinach Wolf and Dr. Levine at this virtual presentation as they:

- Explore the challenges faced on inpatient psychiatric units during COVID-19 including new safety protocols and having to treat and/or transfer a psychiatric patient who tests positive;
- Discuss the impact of COVID-19 on Mental Health Law Article 9 proceedings for retention and treatment over objection;
- Examine the changes in outpatient psychiatric treatment during COVID-19 such as the increased use of telepsychiatry serves and related liability issues, reduced access to medication/treatment in the community, and the constraints on Assisted Outpatient Treatment programs.

WEBINAR FEE: This webinar is free for all attendees.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CREDITS: Approval of this educational program for continuing education credits is pending review by the American Society for Healthcare Risk Management for CEUs toward the designations of CPHRM, DFASHRM, and FASHRM and the New York Continuing Legal Education Board for CLE Credit.
